Emily Martin is in her 12th year as choral director at Louisville Middle School, and her 30th year as a music educator. She is a member of the Mennonite Society of Musical Heritage, and the founding director of Young Voices for Peace. She is thrilled to have the opportunity to work with these wonderful young people!

Kate Klotz is currently in her first year of teaching as an elementary music teacher in Longmont. She enjoys working with young singers, and has had a wonderful experience being a part of Young Voices for Peace!

Haruko Ardito has a B.A. in piano performance. She has taught piano lessons privately, and is currently the accompanist for the Broomfield Civic Chorus. We are proud to have her as our accompanist this year at Young Voices for Peace!
